They were at JRC and now have moved on in life —
How has JRC affected them?

A note from a JRC learning center parent;

“I have two daughters who spent a great deal of their lives at JRC. Jazmine, my oldest, went to the JRC daycare from 4 years to 12 years while my youngest Jayda was there from 7 weeks to 12 years. JRC was not only a childcare provider for my daughters, but they were like a family who has helped raise them. When my job changed my hours, the daycare opened up early which allowed me to continue to work. Also when my daycare fees went up, they offered me a scholarship that allowed me to keep them in daycare. Today Jazmine is 27 and a Registered Nurse. Jayda is 18 and has attended Timken early college. I think that JRC has helped with my daughters success because they have great teachers who helped instill education values in them. I will always be grateful to JRC.”   Valerie

From our JRC Learning Center Director, Kellie Davis;

“I was returning to the front desk from the back of the building and noticed two faces looking at me. At first I didn’t recognize them until one of the young men smiled. The two (Isaiah and Petrez) had gone through our learning center program. The one had started as a toddler and the other as a preschooler. They were buddies in preschool and are now Seniors in High School and still best friends. They both were working through the summer months and wanted to stop and see the JRC staff that had cared for them throughout the years. They both gave me big hugs and shared memories of the past.”

The JRC Learning Center has affected so many lives of the children that have attended. What they have learned and the friends they have made are invaluable...and here is where it begins...

Education begins with reading to the children and continues with children reading to themselves.
